STALE BLOOD

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Revives the Blood to Healthy State.

Stale blood blurs living. It dulls the tove for pleasure, and weakens the spirit. Thoughts sink into an unredeemed dreariness that no goading of the will can dispel. Where there was thrilling excitement, there is only an aching sensation of fatigue.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken regutarly for a while puts a check to the debilitating effects of thin, watery blood. It supplies the blood with red corpuscles, steps it up to its normal, rich redness. Then it is that the pleasgres of rhythmic living return. The smoldering glow of life warms and brightens so that the pleasant sensations of eating, sleeping, walking in the golden sunshine, breathing deep the health-giving air, again become thrilling and full of delight.

Correspondence School for the Blind

INNETKA, ILL-A correspond ence school for the blind has been established in Winnetka by Prof. William A. Hadley, who has been blind for six years. The students pay no charges. Professor Hadley formerly was a teacher in the Lake View high school. After he lost his sight he conceived the idea of helping unfortunates who, like himself, had lost their vision. Mature people, the professor believed, were not satisfied with the majority of educational works for the blind, because they are mostly for children. Adult blind, he decided, yearned for educational advantages other than training in basket occupations. Professor Hadley tried out his theory on some of his friends. They making, weaving, and other similar were enthusiastic and he expanded the work. He has gradually built up a large correspondence with sightless folks all over the world. They are eager to benefit by the opportunities he offers. His only pay is the gratitude of the afflicted he aids.

Professor Hadley's students have become so numerous that his work attracted attention of residents of Winnetka. As a result a committee has been formed as a sort of board of trustees to supply funds for the professor's venture. On the committee are Mrs. Donald Forgan, Mrs. Ernest D. Ballard, Perry Dunlap Smith, Harry S. Moses, Dr. E. Z. L. Brown and John W. Scott.

With the new interest aroused there will be added to this unique college a stenographer, a printing press for the blind, and other paraphernalia to lighten the work and take care of the rapidly growing "registration."

Some of the courses included are reading and writing by revised Braille, English grammar and composition, literary study of the Bible, business correspondence and business English, commercial geography, salesmanship, short story writing, American history and civies, and history of American literature.

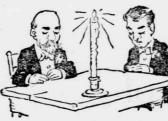

Banqueters Go Hungry-and Are Glad -

HICAGO.-Five hundred workers on the teams competing in the Chicago drive to raise $2,000,000 for the Jewish sufferers in eastern Europe were invited to a dinner at the Drake hotel to report progress and exchange ideas for carrying on the campaign. For an hour they waited for the doors of the big ballroom, where the banquet was to be laid, to be opened to them. Not even Julius Rosenwald and other members of the executive committee knew what was in store for them.

Finally the doors were opened and they filed in. Every door and window had been draped with crepe. Instead of well-appointed banquet boards there stood row after row of plain deal tables, bare. Instead of upholstered chairs were plain, uncomfortable, folding wooden seats. Not an electric light glimmered. Upon the tables were tall candles, affording the only light there was. The laughter that had resounded in the ante-room ceased on the threshold. Solemnly, silently the workers took their seats. Jacob M. Loeb, chairman of the Chicago committee, then said:

"Fellow workers, we have been invited to meet each other and to dine together. We have met, but there is opening.

no banquet spread, no food prepared These tables are bare and we shall not dine. This is not so by accident, but by design. This program-eall it trick if you will-has been deliberately planned with a purpose—a two-fold purpose. For so many to dine in this place would mean an expenditure of $3,500, which would be unwarrantable extravagance and, in the face of starying Europe, a wasteful crime." The words found fertile soil. The entire assemblage rose and applauded. Some one suggested that the money that would have been spent on the dinner be added to the fund. It met with instant approval. By the time the meeting adjourned several hours later thousands had been added to the total of $875,000 announced at the

Hunter Finds Millions in Spanish Gold

ENVER, COLO,-"I have found the key to a in stone, and the key and the map reveals the hiding place of $2, 500,000 in Spanish gold, buried in the wilds of the Arkansas Ozarks," said Anthony Fenninger, who is staying at the Windsor hotel while here to gain aid in searching for the treasure. Mr. Fenninger is organizing an outfit to go into the White River country and recover the bullion, which he asserts has been underground there for nearly 150 years.

"Searching parties have been look ing for this treasure for a hundred years," he said, "but until I discovered the key, quite by accident, while hunting in the Ozarks this fall, the search has been a blind one. Mind you, I knew nothing of any treasure when I went to Eden's bluff. I was simply on a vacation, out squirrel hunting. I stumbled upon a stone slab, hidden in the tall grass. The slab was covered with strange hieroglyphics. I scraped the dirt and moss from the inscriptions and called a na-

"I learned that I had accidentally stumbled upon the key to the paper map, for which the Spanish govern-the buried bullion. "By the means of that stone slab I discovered three other stone maps in the 15-acre tract east of Eden's bluff, and these maps led me to the old shaft, now caved in and covered with weeds.'

He and his partner, who now owns the land there, started to dig and found unmistakable evidence that this was the main entrance to the old Spanish tunnel. They did not have equipment to penetrate far, and they needed apparatus to neutralize the effects of the "arsenic gas generated by the rare gold below" before they dared to go deep in the shaft.

Chaulmoogra Oil in the Philippines?

MANILA, P. I.—The extension of the ethyl-ester treatment to all lepers in the Philippine islands is the chief problem engaging the attention of Dr. Victor G. Heiser, chief of the Far Eastern section of the Rockefeller foundation, who is mak-ing an investigation of health conditions in the archipelago for that organization.

Doctor Heiser has endeavored to as certain the exact quantity of chaul-moogra oil in the Philippine islands and is also looking into the possibility of obtaining a sufficient supply to treat all of the 5,000 persons suffering from leprosy on Gulion island, where the lepers of the Philippine group are confined. "Gen. Lenard Wood, governor general of the Philippines, has made up his mind that all of the lepers at the colony shall receive the treatment, if it is possible," said Doctor Heiser. "I am looking up the available supply of oil for this work, not only from the local standpoint but from a worldwide aspect. "There are at present more than 1,000,000 lepers in the world. India alone has more than 300,000 and Japan about 50,000. Some of the South American countries also have large

"The treatment requires about thirty liters of oil per 1,000 patients a month, so that the possibilities of the chaulmoogra oii industry are appar ent.

"The oil is extracted from a nut growing on the hydnocarpus tree, a variety of which is found on the island of Mindanao. We do not know, however, whether the Philippine tree yields the kind of oil that has the proper medical properties for the successful treatment of leprosy."
